

MORNING APPEAL.

SUNDAY, MAY 27, 1877

NOTES AND QUERIES.

C. Columbus Powning, Esq., editor and proprietor of the Daily State Journal, a thorough Reno man in all respects, peert and unhesitating, built for carrying considerable sail and making speedy goings and comings in the smaller currents of life (and not unlikely in the bigger ones, as well), he came in on a flying visit to the MORNING APPEAL office yesterday, flushed with health and quite alive, to be sure, with the energies of him, breaking his way through all dull men and seeming all laggards, as it were, and cutting a considerable swath of his own and not hesitating to shake up us lazy seniors and let us know that there is some life stirring yet in this universal world of flotsam and jetsam;—said he was well, which was needless, the same being evident, and that his family was in fine health, which is gratifying—setting us moldy old ones a lesson in bragging, which some of us do not do because we lack the exuberance of self-trustful courage. And so we are led on to what the Enterprise of yesterday has to say upon the subject of Reno's locality and prosperity. Says that paper:

A gentleman residing in this city, who recently visited Reno, speaks in glowing terms of the future prospects of that town. He is of the opinion that it is destined to become one of the most prosperous places in the State. Located on the main artery of the greatest railway system in the United States and surrounded by a rich agricultural district, through which courses the beautiful Truckee, with its banks lined with beautiful residences, it is indeed a town of magnificent possibilities. Its people are infused with a spirit of enterprise, scarcely surpassed by the delvers on the Comstock. As showing the extent of the appreciation of agricultural lands within the district named, within the past year, we may mention that a few days since a lady owning a farm of eighty acres in the vicinity of the race track, refused an offer of $8,000 in gold coin for the same. We are pleased to note the prosperity of our sister town of the plain, and hope it may continue to extend its borders until it attains the proportions of a fair city, which it is destined to become at no distant day.

Now we (of the editorial impersonality) are quite free to own that we do not like Reno. There is an o'ersmart, railroadish, hurr-scurrey air about the place, and a paucity of comforts which fail to commend it to any tastes of our own. We are almost tempted to confess that we have had the kind of dislike for it that we have for an upstart; but there is an energy and public spirit about its people sadly wanting in Carson. Our little city is the older Comstock suburb of the two; and somehow there has always been a feeling of rivalry between the places—here as if Reno was an impudent new-comer; there as if Carson were a stingy and prudish old maid. If the truth is to be stated, Reno is impudent; but also its citizens are enterprising and alive to the things and interests which invite prosperity. Carson has herself to blame for a good deal of the deadness of things here. Possibly we have had too much help in the way of State benefits; and capital towns are notoriously dependent. What we need is the spirit of enterprise. Our natural advantages are very superior. The place is pleasantly situated, there is more that is home-like here than in any other town of this State, and people of the better class would prefer living here. Here, also, of all places was the natural point for holding an Annual State Fair. A lazy man cannot accomplish what an alert, stirring one can bring about. The price we pay for our superior style and tone is dullness and inertia. We are too dignified to do the necessary rustling; and we are too cautious to make the needed investments. So Reno boasts of sharp prosperity, and our go-ahead young friend Powning does the steam-whistling for it. Cannot we get our heads together, and do something which shall make our Park a point of attraction for the owners of fat swine and fast going horses.

We are glad that the Catholic Sisters are going to help our little city to secure its anchorage. In due course of time the college buildings planned for the old race course grounds will be constructed. The building will make work for some needy laborers or idle-handed mechanics; and we whose Protestantism causes us to turn away from all devices and plans of the Romanists will not be averse to reaping the benefits of the considerable accession to the consequence of the city. Indeed, we are not sure that there would be any serious objections if the Mormons were to build a great temple here; and so tolerant are we become of that which promises to better our decaying condition that we might, with composure even witness the erection of a Hindoo pagoda or a Chinese joss house. Your dollar is a potent assuager of your exarcebated religious prejudices. Our conscience does not always maintain a scornfulness toward our wallet. . . . We can commend to the readers of substantial literature, the new English periodical known as "The Nineteenth Century." In the last number is a paper from Mr. Gladstone on Montenegro which is full of interesting facts. Indeed, it reads like a romance. Possibly the APPEAL may venture upon such an epitome of that article as the rather limited spaces of this paper will allow. Mr. Fox is the Carson agent for this splendid periodical.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH (Episcopal).—Services at 11 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Sunday school immediately after morning service. H. L. Foote, Rector.

THE AUSTRALIAN TEAM'S MATINEE.

There was a great crowd of little folks at the theater yesterday afternoon to witness the performance by the Australian Team. The little acrobats, Little Lottie and Master Walter greatly astonished the children—as they do anybody else, for that matter. Master Walter performed his rope-walking feat in the evening amid great applause.

THE MORTING FAMILY.

The exhibitions given at the Carson Theater by the Morting Family (comprising the Australian Team) have been highly satisfactory. The little acrobats, who are the chief attractions, are surprising performers. We never seen Little Lottie's equal—at her age. Master Walter is a lad of most wonderful nerve. The feats of legerdemain are very clever and the singing is excellent, by Mr. Snow. A very clever troupe indeed.

There were 30 members of the Convention which framed the Constitution of this State—including the President, the late J. Neely Johnson. Of these thirty we can enumerate six who have died. These are J. Neely Johnson, Jas. A. Banks, C. M. Brossman, Geo. A. Hudson, C. E. DeLong and Lloyd Frizell. There are others of whom we are uncertain whether they are alive or dead. If none besides those we have enumerated have gone, there are no less than 24 of the 30 men who were assembled here about 13 years ago, still in the land of the living—a very large proportion, as the life lists are counted. As is stated elsewhere, Lloyd Frizell dropped dead in the streets of San Francisco yesterday. No particulars of his death have reached us.

We note with pleasure that the parsons happen along in good time to witness the free street exhibition given by the Australian team. This denotes a broad view of things—an all outdoor view, in fact. This world is becoming liberalized—by the showmen.

The pulpit frowns with fierce, relentless rage upon the follies of the mimic stage; But when the goddess actors take the streets, Each parson waits to see their wicked tricks!

THE CHAMPION TROUT.—Gus Lewis yesterday caught the biggest and handsomest trout in the Carson we have ever seen from that stream. It weighs six pounds. Gus was fishing at the Spanish Dam when he caught this noble trout.

M. E. CHURCH.—J. D. Hammond, Pastor. Services to-day at 11 A. M. and 7:45 P. M.; Sabbath school at 2 P. M. Seats free, and all are welcome. Subject of morning discourse, "Pride of Opinion." Soul service in the evening.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Services in the Presbyterian Church to-day at 11 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. Sunday school at 12:15 o'clock.

LUTHERAN SCHOOL.—Rev. Adolphe Geyer will preach in German at the Presbyterian Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MURDER IN THE SECOND DEGREE.

By last evening's Chronicle we are informed as follows concerning the result of the Chico murder trials:

Oraville, May 16.—The jury, after being out all night, came into court this morning and rendered a verdict of murder in the second degree. It is rumored that nine jurors for a long time were in favor of a verdict of murder in the first degree, but finally yielded to the views of the minority. The other parties indicted for killing, viz: James Slaughter, John Slaughter, Eugene Roberts and F. E. Conway, were then brought into Court and severally withdrew their plea of not guilty, and pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree. Sentences will be passed on Monday next.
